

Changes to Thesis and Dissertation Payment Options

If you will be completing a thesis or dissertation in partial fulfillment of your degree requirements, there are binding and other fees associated with submitting your final copies.

There has been a significant change in the payment options available to you.

Effective immediately, credit card transactions are no longer available at the service windows in the Office of the Bursar.

Therefore, the preferred methods of payment are personal checks or cash for fees associated with your thesis/dissertation. Please request a receipt if you use either method because you will be required to present proof of fee payment when you submit your final copies.

If you prefer to use a credit card, then this transaction will be conducted in the Graduate College when you submit your final copies. Telephone credit card transactions are not permitted.

If you are an Extended Campuses student and wish to ship your final copies to the Graduate College, please include one check covering the costs associated with your submission. If you prefer to use your credit card, then complete the credit card transaction form available on our web site and include it with your shipment.

The form is located at www.nau.edu/gradcol/thesis.asp.
