

Continuous Enrollment Policy

You are required to enroll for thesis (699) or dissertation (799) credit during any semester in which you use university resources or the professional time of faculty members, including the semester in which you have your defense and graduate. If you do not graduate during the semester in which you defend, additional credit-hour requirements apply. (Contact the Graduate College for additional information.)

The number of credit hours for which you must enroll should reflect the level of your involvement with your faculty adviser and/or committee. If you are working with your adviser on a regular basis, you should enroll for a minimum of 3 credits. While 1 credit is the minimum for which you may enroll in a semester, some departments will require you to register for more.
