Whether your student is making a change for academic, financial, or personal reasons, we want to help create a smoother transition.

making continuing toward a bachelor's degree in the school, there are key pieces of information that need to be considered and options that need to be open. If a student is going to transfer to another institution, sometimes making a change is the best decision. We have programs and initiatives that can help ease the transition and provide assistance.

something new, the Gateway Center can offer some help. If your student chooses to transfer to a community college, sometimes the transition can be challenging. Not Returning to NAU?

Was your student's cumulative GPA below the 2.0 requirement? Visit our Probation webpage for information.

For students who are placed on academic probation or suspended from the university, the following definitions might be helpful:

Probation:

Students whose GPA is too low might be placed on academic probation or suspended from the university. Academic Difficulty is not a special application required to participate. SYE programs are designed specifically for second-year student success, as a way to prevent the "sophomore slump" by providing important resources and eliminating some of the stress that might add some challenge and excitement to student life.

If your student is making a change for academic, personal, or financial reasons, we want to support your student in any way we can. Please let us know if you need more information about opportunities, resources, or programs for your student. If I don't have the answer to your question, I will find out and get back to you.

Shannon Clark
Parent and Family Services Coordinator
Shannon.Clark@nau.edu
Sincerely,

I am a parent of a Freshman. If so, this Backpack is just for you. I encourage you to take this time toward the end of your student's fall semester and reflect on what things are going well in their lives. As we begin to prepare for their spring semester, I'd like to share some ideas and resources that might be helpful.

Putting the First Year in Perspective

Was your student's cumulative GPA below the 2.0 requirement? Visit our Probation webpage for information.

Don't forget to make continuing toward a bachelor's degree in the school, there are key pieces of information that need to be considered and options that need to be open. If a student is going to transfer to another institution, sometimes making a change is the best decision. We have programs and initiatives that can help ease the transition and provide assistance.

something new, the Gateway Center can offer some help. If your student chooses to transfer to a community college, sometimes the transition can be challenging. Not Returning to NAU?

Was your student's cumulative GPA below the 2.0 requirement? Visit our Probation webpage for information.

For students who are placed on academic probation or suspended from the university, the following definitions might be helpful:

Probation:

Students whose GPA is too low might be placed on academic probation or suspended from the university. Academic Difficulty is not a special application required to participate. SYE programs are designed specifically for second-year student success, as a way to prevent the "sophomore slump" by providing important resources and eliminating some of the stress that might add some challenge and excitement to student life.

If your student is making a change for academic, personal, or financial reasons, we want to support your student in any way we can. Please let us know if you need more information about opportunities, resources, or programs for your student. If I don't have the answer to your question, I will find out and get back to you.

Shannon Clark
Parent and Family Services Coordinator
Shannon.Clark@nau.edu
Sincerely,

I am a parent of a Freshman. If so, this Backpack is just for you. I encourage you to take this time toward the end of your student's fall semester and reflect on what things are going well in their lives. As we begin to prepare for their spring semester, I'd like to share some ideas and resources that might be helpful.

Putting the First Year in Perspective

Was your student's cumulative GPA below the 2.0 requirement? Visit our Probation webpage for information.

Don't forget to make continuing toward a bachelor's degree in the school, there are key pieces of information that need to be considered and options that need to be open. If a student is going to transfer to another institution, sometimes making a change is the best decision. We have programs and initiatives that can help ease the transition and provide assistance.

something new, the Gateway Center can offer some help. If your student chooses to transfer to a community college, sometimes the transition can be challenging. Not Returning to NAU?

Was your student's cumulative GPA below the 2.0 requirement? Visit our Probation webpage for information.

For students who are placed on academic probation or suspended from the university, the following definitions might be helpful:

Probation:

Students whose GPA is too low might be placed on academic probation or suspended from the university. Academic Difficulty is not a special application required to participate. SYE programs are designed specifically for second-year student success, as a way to prevent the "sophomore slump" by providing important resources and eliminating some of the stress that might add some challenge and excitement to student life.

If your student is making a change for academic, personal, or financial reasons, we want to support your student in any way we can. Please let us know if you need more information about opportunities, resources, or programs for your student. If I don't have the answer to your question, I will find out and get back to you.

Shannon Clark
Parent and Family Services Coordinator
Shannon.Clark@nau.edu
Sincerely,

I am a parent of a Freshman. If so, this Backpack is just for you. I encourage you to take this time toward the end of your student's fall semester and reflect on what things are going well in their lives. As we begin to prepare for their spring semester, I'd like to share some ideas and resources that might be helpful.

Putting the First Year in Perspective

Was your student's cumulative GPA below the 2.0 requirement? Visit our Probation webpage for information.

Don't forget to make continuing toward a bachelor's degree in the school, there are key pieces of information that need to be considered and options that need to be open. If a student is going to transfer to another institution, sometimes making a change is the best decision. We have programs and initiatives that can help ease the transition and provide assistance.

something new, the Gateway Center can offer some help. If your student chooses to transfer to a community college, sometimes the transition can be challenging. Not Returning to NAU?

Was your student's cumulative GPA below the 2.0 requirement? Visit our Probation webpage for information.

For students who are placed on academic probation or suspended from the university, the following definitions might be helpful:

Probation:

Students whose GPA is too low might be placed on academic probation or suspended from the university. Academic Difficulty is not a special application required to participate. SYE programs are designed specifically for second-year student success, as a way to prevent the "sophomore slump" by providing important resources and eliminating some of the stress that might add some challenge and excitement to student life.

If your student is making a change for academic, personal, or financial reasons, we want to support your student in any way we can. Please let us know if you need more information about opportunities, resources, or programs for your student. If I don't have the answer to your question, I will find out and get back to you.

Shannon Clark
Parent and Family Services Coordinator
Shannon.Clark@nau.edu
Sincerely,