Dear Friend

As NAU's outdoor season winds down, BackPack is committed to keeping you engaged and informed on all things outdoors. Whether you're planning a trip or just enjoying a local adventure, we're here to help. Check out our calendar and events page for the latest opportunities to connect with nature. Follow us on Facebook to stay up-to-date with all our activities!

Sincerely,

Shannon Clark

Upcoming trips and events:

- Remind your students of these opportunities that Outdoor Adventures has available for them. Here are some ways to help:
  - Visit the Recreation Center past the Exercise Suites. Students can grab a caffeine boost to get their week started.

Outdoor Adventures also offers two Console Adventures and a resource forest located at its Raven's Nest. Students can take a self-guided tour of the forest while learning about Outdoor Adventures' resources in our self-guided tours.

For more information on these opportunities or to find out how to register, visit our website.

Earl Week

Earth Day website

International Idol at 7 p.m. in the du Bois Center. This spectacular event will be served all week at the Hot Spot and the du Bois Center. The festivities began on Monday, April 18 with the Parade of Nations, a celebration of the diversity of our students, faculty, and staff. Other highlights include activities celebrating the international diversity of our NAU community.

As I put together this week's BackPack, I'm impressed by all the exciting events happening on campus. The roar of a distant engine ignites the excitement of adventure, and the thrill of exploring the unknown is palpable. Whether you're on campus or at your desk, keep your eyes open for the next great opportunity to break free from the routine and embrace the spirit of exploration.
