Martin-Springer Institute: Global Engagement through Holocaust Awareness

The Martin-Springer Institute attends to the experiences of the Holocaust in order to relate them to today’s concerns, crises, and conflicts. Programs at the Institute promote the values of moral courage, tolerance, empathy, reconciliation, and justice. Specifically, the Institute focuses on raising awareness of the traumatic scope of the Holocaust and its continuous impact on contemporary society, studying the sources of conflict and models of conflict-resolution, learning about social and moral repair of wounded communities and individuals, teaching alternatives to discrimination and stigmatization, using the arts to create environments of care and compassion, and practicing empathic understanding and dialogical communication. Founded by Ralph and Doris Martin, the Institute fosters dialogue on local, national, and international levels.
